'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Now that the election is over and all bets are paid (?) maybe we can settle down to hard work.

* * * *

The entire nation is making every effort to aid the jobless. Every medium, rail, telephone, radio, are being used in this great plan to aid our unemployed.

* * * *

Christmas should be a mery one, in Richmond. More than $200,000 will be released by local banks to Christmas club members.

* * * *

All over the nation other banks are releasing these funds to members of the clubs.

* * * *

Rember the stories of how the sheriffs in the old west used to dash into saloons, their hands on their guns, looking for culprits. And many a time the fugitive would be sipping his rye when the heavy hand of the law would be placed upon his shoulders.

* * * *

Yesterday a sheriff strode into a modern saloon (an ice cream parlor) at Salinas and placed Lee Sage, hard riding cowboy under arrest. Instead of sipping his rye, however, Sage was sipping a milkshake. My how times change.

* * * *

Several days ago a certain well known couple were married near Sacramento. During the marriage feast, more than $6000 in wedding presents were stolen.

* * * *

Movies were taken of the feast, the marriage and the reception. Today these films will be developed and they will be seen by police who will try to spot the thieves in the movies.

* * * *

It is funny how one will picture how a radio star will look, just from hearing his voice over the air.

* * * *

For instance there is a certain star who appears on the air over a San Francisco station. He sings all old time selections. And as a result of this, and his voice, one pictures him as being an elderly man with chin whiskers.

* * * *

Yesterday we saw his picture for the first time—and found to our amazement that he is only a young man, not more than 24 years old.

* * * *

From now on we reserve our opinions as to the appearance of radio stars until we see them.

EAST COAST IN PATH OF GALE

NEW YORK Nov. 4.—UP—Storm warnings were flashed along the Atlantic coast from the Carolinas to Eastport, Me., today as a nor'easter, at times reaching gale proportions, whipped large areas.

High seas delayed ocean shipping the, Santa Elisa arriving in port here a half a day late and other vessels reporting that they were forced to slow down to ride out the storm.

The disturbance center was the Virginia coast and inland waters.

Six large naval barges were torn from their moorings at the naval operating base at Hampton Roads. Bus and street car traffic was paralyzed in Norfolk for several hours as the swollen tides brought a rush of sea water into downtown and residential streets. Trees were blown down and in many parts of the city the flood waters held up voting.

G. O. P. CONTROL STRUCK BY VOTE RESULTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (Wednesday) UP—A strong Democratic trend and a growth of wet sentiment in the off-year elections were indicated this morning as returns piled up from the 47 states voting for congressional or state officers.

The most sensational Democratic achievements were in Massachusetts, Illinois, New York and possibly Oiho.

Considerable Democratic gains in congress were certain and there was some possibility that the Republican control might be threatened.

J. Shouse, Democratic national chairman claimed that his party had captured control of the house.

Early returns for the senate indicated Democrats were running ahead in ten states, normally Republican or doubtful. The Republicans were ahead in only one Democratic state, Montana, where Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat, was trailing Albert J. Dalen, wet Republican.

In Massachusetts, the Republicans conceded the election to Marcus A. Coolidge, wet Democrat for senator and Joseph B. Ely, also wet for governor.

In Illinois, James Hamilton Lewis, wet Democrat, was far in advance of Mrs. Ruth Hannah McCormick, Republican of semi-dry sentiments. The election of Lewis was conceded by the Rockford Morning Star, of which Mrs. McCormick is president.

In New York, Governor Franklin Roosevelt, leading Democratic presidential possibility was re-elected over his Republican opponent, for governor, Charles H. Tuttle, by a staggering pluarility.

Girl Kills Self At Lover's Bier

SANTA ANA, Nov. 4. —UP—Alone in a mortuary parlor with the body of the man she had loved, pretty Hazel Bouchet, 17, swallowed poison today and died beside his bier.

Her married sweetheart, Richard Kuykendall, 24, had been fatally injured in an automobile crash Sunday. The girl was with him in the hours he fought a losing fight to live.

She apeared at the undertaking parlor this morning and asked to be allowed to "be with him alone for a little while." Once admitted, she closed the door behind her.

A few minutes later attendants were startled by a scream and rushed into the room. They found Miss Bouchet on the floor in convulsions. Near her hand lay a vial that had contained poison. One man ran for a doctor and the girl struggled to her feet, drank from another vial and fell across the casket. A doctor arrived too late to save her.

A note from the girl to Kuykendall indicated that they had a prearranged plan to follow each other in death should one die.

Three out of every four voters in San Francisco favored the Golden Gate bridge plan and in other counties effected by the measure, this ration was higher, it was reported.

ONE DEAD IN ROBBERY TRY

KELSO, Washington, Nov. 5—UP—One robber was dead and another was being sought by a sheriff's posse following an attempted burglary here today.

The two robbers tried to break in a filling station and grocery owned by A. A. Pyle.

As his place has been robbed before, Pyle sleeps there with loaded weapons at hand.

When he heard the robbers, Pyle fired withtout any hesitation.

One of the robbers was instantly killed by a slug from the proprietor's double-barreled shotgun, and the other was believed wounded.

No trace of the escaped robber was found, other than the trail of blood leading to the river's edge.

Elected

HOOVER WAITS RESULTS OF NATION VOTE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—UP—President Hoover waited with outward calm tonight for the verdict of the voters.

After a full day at his offices, the President ate dinner with Mrs. Hoover and turned on the radio to hear returns in the home-like living room.

The White House clerical staff abandoned plans to gather together tonight, as they have done in previous years, to hear the returns.

The President as his only public activity of the day issued an Armistice Day proclamation, ordering the United Sates flag displayed on all government buildings Nov. 11, and inviting all the people to give expression to our gratitude that this year past has seen the agencies of peace sensibly strengthened and that our relations with other peoples are firmly grounded in amity and concord.

In the headquarters of the Democratic and Republican National committees a few political leaders and followers waited for returns. The chiefs of the campaign, however, were in their home districts casting their own ballots.

Otherwise, the national capitol, more vitally affected than perhaps any other community by the result of the election, was less excited about it than any other. The District of Columbia, unlike the 48 states, had no ballot.

Three Boys Held On Theft Charges

Three 16 year old boys are today facing a sentence from juvenile authorities following their capture when motorists reported to Albany police that their machines were being pillaged.

El Cerrito and Albany police had been informed during the past few days of the disappearance of many valuable articles from parked automobiles, and were on the lookout for suspects.

A call came yesterday to Albany police that machines in the neighborhood of Masonic avenue and Washington street, were being searched by a youthful trio. Officers Charles Harris and Stanley Williams sent to the location found the youths in the act of going thru the cars, they declared.

Two of the boys tried to escape but the officers captured them, and today they face charges to be preferred before the court.

MOORE WINS IN JUSTICE FIGHT

At 2 o'clock this morning the incomplete election returns indicated that Charles F. Curry jr., had won his election for congressman in the third district, over his opponent Senator J. M. Inman.

Inman carried Sacramento county, but lost in the other five counties in his district.

Curry carried Richmond by a large majority, and returns showed he was running strong in other parts of the county. In this city Curry received 3637 and Inman 676.

Moore Wins

In the justice of the peace contest the fight has been won by Attorney John Moore, over Arthur A. Alstrom by about 300.

With forty out of the forty-two precincts in Richmond complete the returns give Alstrom 2556 and Moore 2863. The missing precincts are at 595 Eleventh and San Pablo and McBryde avenue.

In another column will be found a tabulation of the returns complete in 40 of the 42 precincts.

CANDIDATE GIVEN BIG LEAD IN DISTRICT

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 5 (Wednesday) Charles F. Curry, jr., write-in candidate for the post of congressman from the third district had apparently won the election, it appeared early this morning on the basis of incomplete returns from this district.

With the incomplete reports of 25[illegible] precincts out of the state's 67[illegible] Curry was leading his opponent, State Senator J. M. Inman, 11,209 to 6595.

In Sacramento alone [illegible] held a slight lead, that perhaps will increase as the complete reports are sent in. With the report of 236 incomplete precincts, Inman had 3212 in comparison to Curry's 2860.

San Joaquin county reported 139 incomplete precincts, giving Curry 2367 and Inman 1345.

Contra Costa county's incomplete reports for 53 precincts showed Curry 2670 and Inman 609.

Only 42 incomplete precincts in Salona county showed Curry was leading 3751 to 1980.

LEGION ELEVEN WILL MEET UTOPIANS

Richmond American Legion gridders are out to win from Utopia club of San Francisco Sunday by a more decisive score than the one by which they won from the same outfit last year.

That was the outlook of the team last night as they were preparing to go into the battle with the experience gained in three defeats, one tie, and two wins behind them.

Some of the strongest aggregations in the state have been met by the Richmond outfit during the past few weeks, and the experience gained in these contests is expected to stand the team in good stead when they tangle with the San Francisco outfit Sunday.

The game is to be played on the Richmond high school field and is expected to attract a large following of fans here.

When the Richmond men met the outfit last year they were victorious by a score of seven to zero. Coach Claude Samples has been working his team on strong offensive plays that are expected to score more than one touchdown during the play.

Trojans-Bruins In Tilt Over 1931 Contest

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—UP—A break between the University of California at Los Angeles and the University of Southern California over the date for the 1931 football game was reported today.

U. C. L. A. was inforced by U. S. C. that it could have the opening date on the U. S. C. schedule as it did this year. Both are Pacific Coast conference teams. U. C. L. A. replied it would be in better shape later in the season.

Arnold Eddy, graduate manager of Southern California, pointed out that U. C. L. A. is not a major conference team such as California Stanford or Washington and should be content with an early date. Steve Cunningham, of U. C. L. A. replied that his school was playing institutions and not teams.

Bears Given Little Chance To Win Game

BERKELEY, Nov. 4.—Conceded little, if any chance to duplicate their feat of last year and upset the powerful Trojan football team this week has swung into the final practice sessions at Berkeley with a grim determination to yield as little as possible to the men of Troy.

Knowledge of the ability of Coach C. M. "Nibs" Price to drill his men in the fine art of breaking up the Trojan line shift and the hope that two brilliant first-year halfbacks, "Hank" Schaldach and Lee Vallanos, may break loose for substantial gains before they are stopped, has buoyed up the Golden Bears' confidence in preparation for the struggle.

Coach Price yesterday gave his men an opportunity to take things easy after their strenuous, if one-sided, tussle with Montana last Saturday, but today's drill at Southwest field will find the Bears going full tilt to take advantage of every bit of time left them before they leave Berkeley Thursday night.

Price will take at least 45 men, if not his entire varsity squad, to southern California. The Bears will leave Oakland on the "Padre" arriving at Glendale station early Friday morning. From there they will go by bus to the Hotel Huntington at Pasadena, which will be their headquarters until they leave the southland Sunday night.

The Bears and the Trojans have been playing football together since 1915. Since that year California has won eight games, notable among which was the 15 to 7 victory of last season. The Trojans have won three games and two of the contests, those of 1917 and 1928, ended in scoreless ties.

Trojans Hoodoo Team For Bears

BERKELEY, Nov. 4.—The University of Southern California football team, since it has been under the direction of Coach Howard Jones, has been one of the few "hoodoo" teams on the University of California's football schedule.

The Bears and the Trojans did not meet in 1925, Jones' first year at Troy, but in 1926 and 1927 the California teams went down to defeat at the hands of the Southern Californians. In the following year a scoreless tie marred the records of both institutions and, incidentally, helped to bring to an unsatisfactory conclusion of the Pacific Coast conference race.

In other words last year's game, a 15 to 7 victory for the Bears, was the first that California has won since the alert Jones has been on the scene.

Caddy Loses Wales' Panama

WEST HARTLEPOOL, Durham Nov. 4.—UP—The Prince of Wales' golf game so fascinated his caddy during a recent match here, that the caddy lost the prince's panama hat, which had been entrusted to him, and the prince had to wear a cap when he left the course. After a long search of the course, which lasted until darkness, the prince reassured the caddy with a laugh. The hat was found the next day where it had been blown by the wind, and the club secretary sent it on to the prince.

French Move To Curb Specialists

PARIS, Nov. 4.—UP—With the recent formation of a French medical league against dichotomy, or the splitting of doctor's fees between a half-dozen useless specialists, a projected bill is being prepared to suppress the practice in France.

The bill asks the chamber of deputies to make it illegal such gouging of the sick and any doctor reported calling in specialists and surgeons when really unnecessary will be investigated. If found guilty his license would be revoked.

SECOND ROUND IN CAGE PLAY TOMORROW

The Studebakers and Odd Fellows will tangle in their first games of A division city basketball league contest scheduled for tomorrow night in the Roosevelt gymnasium.

The Mastercraft Roofers will mix with the Garfinkle quintet in the B division game tomorrow night at 7:30. This will be their first appearances.

Both the Odd Fellows and Studebakers are popular, fast outfits that should play a prominent part in this year's league competition. The Odd Fellows are a new squad in the league, and their lineup contains several outstanding cagers, including Joe Viano and Lefty DeBaere. The Studebakers are old veterans in the league and with such men as the Muth brothers and Harry Bonham, should leave little to be desired.

Tomorrow night's B contest promises to be on a par for speed and rivalry with the A division clash. The Garfinkle cagers composed last year's Mammy's Place B division champion team. The Mastercraft Roofers are also mostly veterans, and promise fast opposition for Garfinkle's tomorrow evening.

Bear Frosh To Battle Stanford Babes Saturday

BERKELEY, Nov. 4.—Freshman football teams of the University of California and Stanford will meet Saturday at Berkeley in the annual "little big game" which closes the season for both elevens. The contest is scheduled for 2 o'clock at California Memorial stadium, since the varsity will be in Los Angeles meeting Southern California.

Both teams have met defeat at the hands of the powerful Southern California yearling eleven, so the "little big game," in addition to involving an ancient rivalry, will also involve the disposition of the cellar position in the "little big three" championship competition which has already been won by the Trobabes.

Coach Roy Riegels has been greatly encouraged by the convincing trouncing his Bear Babes gave to the heavy, powerful Onontah Military Academy team last Saturday. The yearlings showed a disposition to make their power plays good for yardage for the first time this season, and largely as a result of their ability to cope with the heavier Oneonta line, shoved over four touchdowns to win, 26 to 0.

Both teams have defeated the Santa Clara yearlings, California 7 to 0 and Stanford 7 to 6; both teams have lost to the Southern California first year eleven by fairly comparable scores, and engaged in tie combats with Sacramento Junior college which may tend to put them about on a par for Saturday's game.

Pee Wee Golf Hits Britain

LONDON—Great Britain is out for "Pee-Wee Golf" following the game's success in the United States. Two hundred courses are to be laid down throughout the country in the next two months by promoters of Super Little Golf, Ltd.

The novelty of midget golf, which became the craze here after its introduction from America has worn off, but the new style of indoor game has rapidly attained popularity since its initial try out at the Kitcat Restaurant. Approximately six hundred players go round the course every night.

The promoters believe that certain similarities between the new game and regular golf are likely to hold the interest of players for a much longer period than any other form of indoor golf. So confident are they of success that they intend to form a Super Little Golf association with affiliated clubs all over the country.

Contracts already have been signed for the laying of the new courses in London and its suburbs, Windsor, Manchaster and towns on the south coast, while arrangements are being made to supply one holiday resort with five golf courses.

ATTORNEY IS NAMED ON BOARD

BERKELEY, Nov. 4.—The appointment of Sidney M. Ehrman, alumnus of the University of California and San Francisco attorney, to complete the unexpired term of the late regent Arthur W. Foster, by Governor C. C. Young, has met with the unanimous approval of members of the faculty and of alumni of the university because of the interest which Ehrman has shown in forwarding the work of the institution.

Ehrman was born in San Francisco, August 23, 1873. He was educated in the Lincoln grammar school, class of 1887; Lowell high school, class of 1891; and the University of California, class of 1896. The delay in graduation from the university resulted from a leave of absence of 18 months spent in travel through Europe and study at the University of Munich, Germany. Following the completion of his course at the university, he entered Hastings college of law and was graduated from that institution in May, 1898.

Admitted to the Bar in 1897

He was admitted to the bar by examination in August, 1897, and started practice in 1898, in the offices of W. S. Goodfellow and Garrett W. McEnerney. In 1905 he became a member of the firm of Heller, Powers and Ehrman. In 1920 the firm became Heller, Ehrman, White & McAuliff. Ehrman has specialized particularly in corporations and municipal bond issues, and during the past ten years has served as director of a number of banks and business corporations.

Friends of Ehrman recall that Mrs. Ehrman, formerly Miss Florence Hellman, to whom he was married in 1904, is the daughter of Isaias W. Hellman, who was a regent of the University of California for about 30 years.

In addition to the facts that Ehrman was himself an alumnus; that his son, the late Sidney Hellman Ehrman, was an alumnus with the class of 1927, holding, also, a master's degree with the class of 1928, and that a series of scholarships have been established by Mrs. E. S. Heller as a memorial to Sidney Hellman Ehrman; Mr. Ehrman has been prominently identified with the work of the university in many fields.

Premiers Seek Better Tariff From England

NEW YORK.—The British labor government is facing a serious situation in imperial relations because of the strong stand taken by the premiers of the self-governing dominions for more favorable tariff treatment by the mother country.

Implications have been made by the dominions that if Great Britain will not associate with the other parts of the empire in a closer customs union, it may become necessary for the colonial statesmen to look elsewhere for favorable treatment.

This attitude does not indicate any desire on the part of the dominions to raise the question of their independence; but whatever weakens the links binding the British Empire together cannot help reacting against Great Britain in world relations.

Pledged to Free Trade

The Labor government considers itself pledged to free trade and Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden, whose financial influence among the Laborites is dominant, is prepared to battle to the end against any form of protection. Various groups within the ranks of British Labor are moving toward acceptance of the principle of empire tariffs, but their power is not yet sufficient to place them in a controlling position.

Premier MacDonald is thus being forced into a position where he must rebuff the dominions, as gently as possible, but with determination not to permit the British free trade principle to be overthrown If the British protectionists were united, the Labor government would face almost certain defeat at the polls on this issue. But the question of taking food has not been accepted by Stanley Baldwin, leader of the conservatives.

Baldwin is prepared to accept protection on other matters, while postponing the food issue. That would alienate the British farmers and would not serve the interests of the dominions, who want to have preferential entrance into the British food markets, while keeping the foreign importers out.

WILD COMPANY NOW SHOWING AT THE FOX

Joe Hardy, a super gangster, enlists the services of his girl, a beautiful "speakeasy" entertainer, in committing a robbery. They "frame" Larry Grayson, unrestrained scion of an aristocratic family, and he becomes involved in the crime, which terminates in a murder.

The boy, reckless and impetuous, is in ignorance of both the robbery and killing, but he has been consorting with the gangster and his girl and is caught on the scene of the murder, so circumstances point to him as the murderer. He is arrested, tried and convicted, but escapes a prison sentence, after which he and his father, who fights bitterly for his son's liberty, come to a better understanding and the youth is free to resume a romance with his erstwhile sweetheart.

Such, in brief, is the story of "Wild Company," Fox movietone all talking romantic and emotional drama, that opens a long anticipated engagement at the Fox-California Theater today.

The leading roles of father and son are portrayed by H. B. Warner and Frank Albertson. Sharon Lynn has a featured role as the beautiful siren who intrigues the boy and plunges him into a trial for his liberty. Joyce Compton appears as the adventuresome sister.

Claire McDowell is cast as the wife and mother. Other favorites in the cast include, Frances McCoy, Richard Keene, Kenneth Thompson, Mildred Van Dorn, Bobby Callahan, Bela Lugosi and George Fawcett.

As the star entertainer in the night club Miss Lynn sings two songs, "Joe" written by Con Conrad and Jack Meskill and "That's What I Like About You," composed by James V. Monaco and Cliff Friend. She is accompanied by an orchestra that is well known in the radio world and a background is furnished by an ensemble of beautiful and gorgeously costumed girls.

This production, directed by Leo McCarey, has been acclaimed by critics as one of the most dramatic and absorbingly interesting pictures dealing with flaming youth yet to reach the audible screen.

Motor License Spells His Name

LONDON.—Spelling your name on your motor license tag is not a stunt that can be done by everyone, yet Harry Ttate, comedian, does it. His number is "T-8" and it took considerable trouble to get it, he says.

Liecnse department employes, however, are usually accommodating when motorists' requests for trick numbers are within reason.

"We spend a lot of time dodging '13' for the superstitious ones," says one employe. "We give them anything they want, if we have it."

Japanese Ship Abandoned By Crew At Sea

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 4.—UP—The story of a valiant battle by seamen against death aboard the Japanese freighter Seiyo Maru was told in an unofficial wireless message received here today by the MacKay Radio Telegraph company.

The message, received from the States line steamer California, which went to the aid of the disabled Seiyo Maru, told of the battle waged by the Japanese sailors to keep their ship afloat, even though it was drifting helplessly, with a broken rudder.

The message declared further that the sailors were handicapped by the vessel's cargo shifting, which gave the slippery decks a 45 degree list.

The seamen were finally forced to abandon the Seiyo Maru and take to the lifeboats, the message said, when there was no further hope of saving the ship.

The sailors were reported safe aboard the Hirahu Mira, another Japanese ship.

SANTA FE TRAIL TO BE SHOWN AT THE FOX

King Tut, mongrel pup representing an initial investment of thirty cents, and now valued by his owner, E. G. Henry, "ex-gardener," at fifty thousand dollars, had the first big canine part in talking pictures.

His barking talents are utilized anew in "The Santa Fe Trail," recorded with dialogue by Paramount from Hal G. Evarts' novel "Spanish Acres," and to be headlined for a showing beginning tomorrow at the Fox-California Theater.

King Tut carried an important part in George Bancroft's second talking picture, "Thunderbolt," causing Bancroft's capture and execution.

King Tut has turned sheep dog for his part in a "western," portraying the role of Shag, the pet of Richard Arlen, star of the production. With Arlen, Eugene Pallette, and Junior Durkin, Tut is in charge of a herd of 3500 sheep.

Since his birth six years ago, King Tut worked with almost every star in motion pictures. Among his important parts was one with Harold Lloyd in "Speedy."

Rosita Moreno, former vaudeville and musical comedy star, appears opposite Arlen. The cast also includes Hooper Atchley, Lee Schumway, Luis Alberni and Chief Yowlache.

Otto Brower and Edwin H. Knopf, co-directors of "The Light of Western Stars" and "The Border Legion," co-directed the picture from an adaptation by Sam Mintz and dialogue by Edward E. Paramore, Jr.

SCOTT TELLS OF DRIVE PLANS HERE

By W. W. SCOTT
Gen. Chairman Community Chest

This is the first effort of the new Community Chest in Richmond for the support of its welfare organizations. A host of able men and women are giving freely of their time in order to cooperate in one great effort to raise all the money needed by these six philanthropic and welfare organizations.

The total sum required is $24,115.67, a reasonable sum for a city like Richmond. Every dollar of this amount will be spent judiciously and under the watchful eyes of keen business men. Results are assured. Among the more than 400 Community Chests in America, the amounts raised each year average over $2 per capita. Some cities raise $4 to $5 or more, per capita. Here in Richmond our fund represents only $1.20 per capita.

You, living in Richmond, are vitally concerned in what is being done to make this a better place in which to live. It is your home and you want your home-your family-your children-protected and insured in every way possible.

You want protection from those destructive influences, the existence of which you cannot personally control.

You want assurance that social and economic conditions are maintained on a constantly improving high plane.

You know that only through such assurances are prosperity, growth, happiness, industry, possible for you, your family and your city.

If through any effort of your own you could accomplish this desired result you would gladly put forth that effort if only for a selfish reason.

In this day of organized civilization we do things by community effort rather than by individual effort. You want to have a part and aid in the work being done to make Richmond a better place in which to live. You owe that to the community which makes it possible for you to earn a living and maintain your home in security.

Richmond's prosperity and progress is our problem—our responsibility. For our own sake we must help solve that problem. As residents of Richmond we must meet our responsibility.

You cannot go out and do in person your share of the necessary work being done to make Richmond the city it should be. But you can contribute generously to the Community Chest—meet your obligations to yourself and to your city and have done for you, better and cheaper, through six major welfare organizations, that which would take each man many days to do individually and not nearly so well.

All of these welfare and character - building organizations are working for you. They are making Richmond, our city, the ideal city where everyone is on the road to becoming a self-supporting, self-sufficient individual. The principal work of each of these agencies is to teach self-support by improving the individual.

To be a real citizen of Richmond, to maintain the Richmond spirit, to show that our hearts are in the right place—each of us must cooperate in this great program of organized Community Service, the real force that builds cities.

FIDDLER GETS NOSE POKED

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 4.—UP—A "fiddle flirtation" that ended in a blow on the nose for the musical wooer was related in Evansville city court by Thomas Connolly, 40, who was cast as the irate husband.

Connolly was charged with assault and battery upon James Oakley, 25, but after Connolly told his side of the story, the charges were dismissed by Special Judge Ollie Reeves.

Oakley, who lives across the street from the Connolly's would sit on his front porch and watch Mrs. Connolly, 36, mother of three children, moving about in her front yard, it was charged.

"Then he would go in the house and get out his fidd'e," Connolly said. "He'd play 'I'm Watching You'—until the whole neighborhood could hear.

"Mrs. Connolly would walk down the street. 'Wherever You Go. I'm Following You' were the strains Oakley would play.

"He'd mix these up with something like 'I'm in Love, So in Love, Love Me.' That's what made me the maddest.

"After about three weeks of this I got good and mad, so I went over and asked him if he was flirting with my wife."

Oakley denied that he was, according to witnesses, but Mrs. Connolly said that he was.

"So I just natural'y smacked him a couple," Connolly said. Oakley had Connolly arrested on assault and battery charges.

Special Judge Reeves lectured all parties concerned when he dismissed charges against Connolly and cautioned Oakley to be careful in his selection of violin pieces in the future.

2 WOUNDED IN GUN FIGHT AT HERCULES

Search was on today for an alleged chicken thief believed seriously wounded early yesterday when he was shot while fleeing from a chicken house in Hercules.

Joe Dalesser, 19 of Hercules was a victim of the chicken thief's aide, when he suffered a slight wound in the arm from a gun of the man who was sitting in a parked automobile awaiting the return of the alleged thief.

Dalesser leaving the house shortly after 6 o'clock saw the man running from the chicken house and began firing upon him. He crumpled and fell to the street, and the man sitting in the parker car pulled him into the automobile and fired a shot that struck Dalessa. He was treated in Cottage hospital. His wound was said not to be serious.

After Dalessa had fired several shots at the fleeing automobile he got into his own car and chased the men until he lost sight of the car. He did not know which way it turned when it reached the state highway.

It was believed that the man was seriously wounded and would have to apply to a doctor or hospital for treatment.

TELLING THE WORLD

EIGHT GREATER MEN

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW has picked the eight greatest men in the last 2,500 years and, as usual, he's wrong. Euclid, Ptolemy, Kepler, Copernicus, Aristotle, Galileo, Newton and Einstein are good. But they are not quite fast enough to make the All-Cosmic team. The eight greatest men in the last 2,500 years are these:

1. SANTA CLAUS. No man has such a faithful following as he. Although he has not been seen for a period much longer than Judge Crater, millions still believe he lives. The Santa Claus theory on the relativity of space is also more important than Einstein's. He has proved year after year that a portly gentleman of forty-four inches diameter can crawl down a 12x14 inch chimney without even getting his red coat smudged by soot. Not only that, but he has climbed UP the chimney as well.

• • •

2. RUDY VALLEE. After the world had suffered for forty years from cheer leaders, Rudy Vallee proved something really useful could be done with a megaphone after all. Also, by the simple device of crooning a march song into a microphone, Mr. Vallee made the University of Maine more important than Notre Dame, Harvard, Oxford or old Heidelburg. And by singing "I'm Just a 'agabond Lover" on the radio once a week, he increased palpitation of the heart in the United States by 47 per cent, undoing twenty years' work of the Mayo brothers. We can't leave a man like that of our All-World Double Quartet.

3. BARON MUNCHAUSEN. The Baron, although he did not know it at the time, founded the true confession story. He had the reputation of being the biggest liar in the world but he was simply ahead of his time. An examination of his writings will also reveal that Baron Munchausen was the originator of the weekly market letter.

• • •

4. EGBERT THROCKMORTON. This genius discovered miniature golf, one of the greatest scientific contributions to the theory of space. Whereas, up to Throckmorton's discovery it was thought necessary to have 1,100 acres for one golf course, he made it possible to play eighteen holes on a lot the size of a corner cigar store. Mr. Throckmorton is indebted in part to the originator of the breakfast room and kitchenette for his ideas, but he thought up a lot of new ones himself.

5. VENUS DE MILO. This little lady gets a place on our all-time octet for her womanly repression. Although suffering from a loss of both arms for 2,000 years, she never once hung a "crippled" sign on her chest and put a tin cup in front of her. Moreover, despite the loss of her two arms by carelessness, she never sued for damages, although with her looks she could do plenty to a jury.

• • •

6. THE LEFT-HANDED SMITH BROTHER. With black and white reigning color combination this season, we stick the left-hand Smith brother in our line-up to offset Santa Claus's snow-white whiskers. Mr. Smith's rich, luxuriant black beard will add balance and beauty to our octet, especially in a panoramic picture.

7. KNUTE ROCKNE. In ten seasons at Notre Dame, Mr. Rockne contributed more to science than the entire dental profession. With stadiums an aching void all over the country Rockne discovered he could use crowds of 50,000 and 60,000 for cement fillings, which were just as good as gold. He also made the Four Horsemen travel 23,000 miles in one season without losing a stirrup.

8. GEORGE BERNARD SHAW. We have nominated Mr. Shaw as one of our eight greatest men simply so he will agree that maybe our selection is better than his after all.

THIS AND THAT

You can soon buy theater tickets in 160 New York telegraph offices. All they need now is to put in sandwich counters and Clarence Mackay will own a chain of drug stores.

The word "grapefruit" has been changed to a new name in the French dictionary. But a grapefruit by any other name will taste as sour unless you sprinkle sugar on it.

Col. Bob is reported to have fled to the Thousand Islands. But he didn't say which one.

Brown students throw old furniture out of dormitory windows—News item.

Maybe they'd just read Col. Woods's advice to spruce up around the house.

The Literary Digest certainly got caught flat-footed on all the next Presidents in South America.

Another billion dollar bank merger for New York. And they say the next one is the Corn Exchange absorbing the Lima Bean Trust Company and calling itself the Succotash National Bank.

The Beauty Shop

Reducing Arms

NO, nothing to do with naval parity. Just a helpful little suggestion or two to those whose arms are above par in the matter of weight.

FRANCES OLIVIER

Arms are important at this time of year. Something which you do not need this department to tell you. We would remind you, though, that they are unusually important this season. Just look at the decolletage of the moment with its all-revealing drop shoulder effect! . . . There's a line to make overplump arms look even worse. But it's irresistible where the arms are of a rounded slenderness.

Do you know one of the best arm reducing stunts in the world? Wringing the arms. Yes, just as if they were wet towels. Grasp the right arm firmly with the left hand and just twist it back and forth, but tightly. Do this for a few minutes night and morning, letting each arm have its share of twisting and wringing, and if the pounds don't begin to wear down then you must be an iron lady.

As you probably know by this time, the Beauty Shop is no advocate of dumbbell exercising. But you know this lifting of weight is most helpful to fat arms, especially arms that are flabby fat. Even the simple little practice of tensing the arms—making a muscle, as the boys say—is excellent for shaving down exaggerated curves in the arms.

Rowing exercises are wonderfully good too. Nor do you have to go out on the lake. The average gym has a rowing machine. And if you do not happen to like gyms you can sit on the floor and make believe you are rowing. If you go through the motions honestly, tensing the arms and moving them back and forth, you are calculated to get excellent results. And just think of the flattering effect on your waistline too!

If you are of the heroic type you will apply hot compresses of water and epsom salts to the arms, in addition to your exercise. One or two tablespoonfuls of salt to a quart of hot water is the proper solution. Or you may prefer to use one of the several excellent reducing soaps, pomades or powders in the beauty market.

Fat-all-over people can best reduce their arms by reducing themselves, through general exercise and intelligent diet—health permitting.

New Wrinkle—We Dance in Pajamas

By Ann Roberts

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

EVENING PAJAMAS MADE OF PALE GREEN TUSSORE WITH JEWELED STRAPS

OVER in Europe the young things are dancing in pajamas. It's a startling bit of an idea, but don't you just know it will take here? It has a new thrill about it—a tang of the unusual. And no American young lady is going to miss that chance—especially once she has seen the loveliness of the pajamas designed for dancing occasions.

These are not repetitions of beach pajamas—not in any sense. They are as dressy as they can be, made of satins and silks, chiffons and brocades.

Some one has said that pajamas, far from being risque, a sensation their name always seems to carry with it, are really so much more modest than anything the female has worn for countless seasons past. This is so. They are certainly all enveloping. But these later ones get round that in a most sophisticated way by having bodices toned down to almost nothing. Sometimes they are mere suggestions of bodices appearing as little brassiere effects—narrow rhinestone strings over the shoulders and that is all. They have their quality of allure all right, but it is worked out in a brand new way.

Then the pants, while they are wide and flouncy and floppy, are fitted to the hips quite tightly before they begin their wider ways. After that no one on earth would know them from the fullest sort of full skirts.

Not all of them have any risque feature either. Some, like the one sketched on this page, are quite simple and demure with their fitted bodices, their long wide sleeves and flounced trousers. Who could wish to be more properly dressed for an afternoon or an evening party?

The novelty of them is their big appeal, and any day now you may expect an invitation to a pajama dance, at which auspicious time you wont wish to be caught napping.

A few evening pajama costumes designed in Paris have been brought over by one of the big shops here. Sketches of others are arriving daily—you will find them easy to look at—sensational in their appeal.

Some women just naturally take to pajamas—feel better dressed in them than they do in their regular evening dresses. The youngsters get the idea quickly and most of them love it.

One set is made with sunburst pleats at the sides—these in chiffon. Another set has dark green satin trousers, very wide at the ankle and the tiniest little bodice of green and silver brocade cut so low in the back that it really can't be said to have any back at all.

Another pair is made with trousers that are just a series of wide fringes—these in black. Then there is a little white satin bodice cut very low.

These pajamas for evening are not given to coats. They are dresses in themselves, but the girls carry wide squares of silk to match the pajamas and throw these over their shoulders when they seem to need a bit of extra protection. Also there are little specially made capes designed to go with special sets of pajamas and these are worn on the shoulders or thrown over the arms.

White crepe de chine is used for making one of the sets of pajamas shown here. It is merely an interesting assemblage of lines clinging to the figure and displaying it at one point and verging off into wide reaches of fullness at another. The back is that of an honest-to-goodness evening dress.

FOR AFTERNOON TEAS, A PAJAMA IN HEAVY SILK

DANCING PAJAMA OF PALE WHITE CREPE DE CHINE

IN TWO SHADES OF CHIFFON, MADE DOUBLE AND BELTED WITH A JEWELED ROLE

One thing you can do with pajamas which you can't very well do with regularly accepted evening gowns and that is to let your sense of color have all of the expression it craves.

The pajama with suspender back, for instance, is simple enough in design, but it is made of the most subtle color in a light weight of what the French call tussore. You can imagine it on a very pale blonde, doing everything for her by way of bringing her own good looks into prominence.

Some of the dancing pajamas are made of two layers of chiffon, a lighter one underneath and a darker one on top. For instance, a pale rose pink under a deep cherry pink. Then the bodice is of pale pink only, done also in two layers. Another has two shades of blue for the trousers and a bodice of bright cerise.

These pajama sets are helping to create a new era of dress and you can help to blaze the trail if you want to dash in and have one of them now.

Cleaning Sooty Walls

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

CLEANING walls and ceilings when smoky is often difficult, if undertaken without some smoke removing extract, yet, there are a large number of home mechanics who undertake the job with a pail of water and a sponge, usually depending upon getting off some of the smoke and covering the remainder with a coat or two of size or shellac. The common yellow white is the invariable color of walls or ceilings treated in this manner.

If, on the other hand, the surfaces to be cleaned are brushed as clean as possible with a stiff brush or broom, then washed over with strong pearlash water, and immediately rinsed with clean water before the pearlash is dry, the result may be different. At least, the surfaces will be free of smoke stains.

When dry, give the surfaces a coat of slaked lime containing a liberal portion of alum dissolved in hot water. When this is dry, and it must be dry, otherwise the lime wash will destroy the strength of size or shellac, prepare for whatever finish you desire the surfaces to have.

Pearlash is purified potash and not as likely to burn the hands as potash yet, a potash solution may be used if pearlash is not obtainable. In either case, the solution may be applied with the hands incased in rubber gloves. A half teacup of ash to a full pail of water, is none too strong for the solution.

Home Painting Suggestions

Use nickel enamel for your gas stove. Apply the enamel when stove is cold and do not light it until thoroughly dry. You can get the nickel enamel in the various colors. One housewife had perfect success in enameling her black gas range a light gray.

One woman whose tan kitchen shades became soiled painted them orange, using flat paint. Then she traced a stencil design border and outlined it with black paint. To do this the shade must hang full length and one side be thoroughly dry before the other is painted.

Women prefer the quick drying enamel because it is easier to apply than lacquer and it does not chip.

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

The sight of full-rounded, pink-tinted Malaga grapes in the market may inspire the average housewife to thoughts of decorative fruit bowls and luscious salads, but the expert chef has other ideas about their prime purpose in the kitchen. Give him a bunch of Malaga grapes and he will say at once: "Tonight we will have fish—we will have fish such as you have never eaten except in Paris."

KAREN HOLLIS

He may complain a bit that here he cannot have the glass of white wine that is the finishing touch to this chef d'ouevre, but he will admit that, even without it, fish a la vineyard is a triumph of the culinary art.

Firm-fleshed halibut steak is ideal to serve with grapes, and it is good news to the budgeteering housewife that just now halibut steak can be bought for 29 cents a pound.

There is nothing about this recipe that calls for a chef's skill or unusual knowledge of cooking. The recipe is absurdly simple.

VINEYARD HALIBUT

1½ pounds halibut
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 onion
1 cup halved and seeded Malaga grapes
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup water or fish bouillon
4 tablespoons butter
Cayenne

Cut the fish into serving portions, sprinkle with salt and pepper and one-half the lemon juice. Put a slice of onion on each piece of fish, cover and let stand for two hours. Pour the remaining lemon juice over the grapes and place them in the refrigerator until you start cooking the fish. At the end of two hours, remove the slices of onion, place the pieces of fish in a buttered baking dish and dot them with butter. Pour on fish bouillon or water, and dash a little cayenne on each piece of fish. Cover and bake in a very hot oven for ten minutes. Remove the cover and bake fish a few minutes longer to brown. Place on hot serving platter and pour grapes in lemon juice over fish just before serving.

Waterproof Wall Paper

YOU can waterproof your wallpaper as well as protect it from fading, splitting and general deterioration by spreading a thin coat of liquid wax glaze over its surface. The new waterproof wallpapers which now may be purchased are extremely popular, as they may be easily cleaned with a damp cloth. By using a liquid wax glaze you may give similar advantages to the wallpapers you already have in your rooms. First test your paper however, by pasting a sample upon some flat surface and applying the liquid wax glaze, as there are a very few wallpapers which are too absorbent to take this treatment satisfactorily.

Tray Meals Made Attractive

A NEW YORK bachelor girl entertains as many as ten persons for Sunday night suppers and she does this in her two-room apartment.

These gatherings are most delightful and the supper is charmingly served. Just matching trays spread with fine linen tray cloths and the individual suppers are placed wherever most convenient for the guests as they are seated. Then a large serving tray is placed on the table and from this the hostess passes extra bread, sandwiches, pickles and the other foods and beverage.

In one home where the man studies and writes and never would come to luncheon when summoned the wife instituted the tray meal and every noon she appears in the study with two filled trays which she places on the card table and they thoroughly enjoy the cozy meal which means only a slight interruption in the man's work and a decided saving of labor and exasperation for the woman.

These tray meals are becoming popular, especially for Sunday night suppers. The trays are sold in sets of four packed in a gift box, with twelve colors to choose from. By the way, isn't this a good gift to note on your Christmas shopping list?

Various Curtain Meshes

WHAT to do when, in answer to your request for curtains, an erudite salesperson pops the question, "Filet or cable?" By reading this carefully you will be better able to know what he is talking about, and maybe be able to go him one better by asking for a "fish."

Filet is a square mesh; cable is usually a rather round, heavy mesh; Brussels net is a very fine, hexagonal mesh and fish, Tuscan or Seine net, is very coarse. Speaking generally, the size of the mesh or "point range," meaning the number of lines to an inch, is the quality gauge. Six to sixteen points is the average range.

You and Your Child

Critical Children

"MOTHER, your hat's not on right," says fifteen-year-old Clara to her mother, giving the said hat a push and a pull. "Do I ever do anything right?" asks Clara's mother in exasperation. "I only want you to look nice," is the girl's indignant rejoinder.

"Mother, you oughtn't to wear that necklace with that dress," is seventeen-year-old Sally's criticism, while Bob insists that his mother crosses the street entirely too slowly.

Father's manner of dressing, speaking, walking, managing his business, etc., all come in for their share of criticism also. I recall a story a professor of Columbia University once told me about his adolescent son. He had told his boy what he considered a very good joke, but it had met with practically no response. However, during a vacation period, when the young man was home from college, he announced to his father that he had a funny joke to tell him, one that Prof. So and So had told in class, and then, amid howls of laughter he related the self-same joke that his father had told him some months previously. This wise man laughed at the joke, saying never a word. He realized fully that, at adolescence, what one's parents do is never remarkable, but the same thing coming from an outsider seems altogether different.

This story helped me very much when I was going through the process of "dethronement." I thought to myself, "If this exceedingly brilliant and successful man is not a hero to his adolescent son, who am I that I should be disconcerted because my child is also going through this perfectly natural stage in his development?"

Before adolescence, children are very dependent upon their parents, even for their opinions and views. At adolescence, however, the youngster feels a strong urge to break away, and stand on his own feet. Before adolescence, the child and his parent are intertwined, so to speak. At adolescence, for the first time, the child stands off and views his father and mother from a distance. Naturally he sees many flaws, and if he and his parent are "chums," he is not at all backward in his criticism. This breaking away is healthy for the youngster. It is a necessary step. But, we need not worry. This critical stage will pass. The young people will become more tolerant as they grow older. Later on, our good points will stand out much more strongly than our weak ones!

Household Hints

Try coffee grounds to clean the inside of bottles—mix them with warm suds and shake vigorously.

An embroidery frame will make the mending of a tear an easier task—adjust frame carefully to avoid tearing of fabric.

Man Dies Under Train In Mystery

German Banker To Give Talk On War Debts

BERKELEY, Nov. 4.—Dr Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichstbank, and German representiative in the deliberations of the Dawes committee on reparations, will lecture at the University of California, Thursday, November 13, at 8:15 o'clock, in Wheeler auditorium, according to an announcement from the office of the president.

Dr. Schacht is visiting the United States under the sponsorship of the Institute of International Relations. He will lecture on the subject of "The Economic Side of Reparations." The lecture will be open to the public without admission charge.

Ever since his sudden resignation from the Reichsbank last March, Dr. Schacht has been traveling in Europe gathering first hand data on existing economic and financial conditions. Although Dr. Schacht was well known in Germany prior to the close of the war, being vice-director of the Dresdener bank, it was his work in connection with the introduction of the Rentemark that first brought him international importance. He holds the honor with a small group of others of having devised this temporary currency which made the transition from inflation to stability possible.

Dr. Schacht was a staunch upholder of the Dawes plan, even though he freely admitted it had many defects. His prediction that it would not be able to solve the economic problems bound to arise during the course of Germany's rehabilitation, has since been fulfilled. But Dr. Schacht saw that for the first time the Dawes plan excluded the politico - military treatment of international differences and confined itself to the domain of economic law.

Should the forthcoming German election result in an increase of the Right Wing parties, which have many members who favor the budgetary reforms suggested by Dr. Schacht, it is possible that he may be offered a high government post.

SCOUTS IN GOOD WORK IN THIS VICINITY

Richmond Boy Scouts, now one of the agencies of the Community Chest, are an active force in the work of building character and finding opportunities for development for the youngsters of the city, according to a summary of the organization's activities made public yetserday.

There are 240 Boy Scouts in the Richmond council, sponsored by the Washington Parent-Teachers' association, the American Legion, the Rotary Club, the Knights of Pythias, the Odd Fellows, the Kiwanis club, Elks club, Lions club, American Guards, Wesley Methodist church, Presbyterian church, Stege Improvement club, Grace Lutheran church, St. Mark's church and the Veterans of Foreign wars. The organization includes seventeen troops besides one troop of Sea Scouts.

The program of activities takes in instruction in swimming, life saving and first aid, leadership in camping, woodcraft, archery, pioneering, cooking, leathercraft, hiking and many others. Opportunities for the scout to prepare for his life work are found through the merit badge system, which makes awards for such studies as architecture, aviation, chemistry, and a score of others.

The county maintains a scout camp 18 miles above Sonora on the Mono highway, surrounded by virgin timber where many of the boys go each summer for an outing that is both instructive and pleasant. An up to date swimming pool with the swimming properly supervised by life guards is one of the most popular features of the camp.

There is a leisure time program for the Richmond scouts which brings out the best in the youngsters and provides them with a supervised and organized "gang" that takes the place of the destructive gang formerly organized by boys themselves.

Scouts take the following oath: "On my honor I will do my best—

"1—To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout law;

"2—To help other people at all times;

"3—To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

The Scout law binds the scout to the principles of trustworthiness, loyalty, helpfullness to others, friendliness, courtesy, kindness to animals, obedience to authority, cheerfulness, thriftiness, bravery, cleanliness and reverence.

Five other agencies besides the scouts will be in the Chest whose first year's work will begin with the opening of the campaign next Monday.

Leaders pointed out that the combined effort will put an end to the individual agency appeals hitherto made by various groups throughout the year.

One Slain In Love 'Duel'

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—UP—A proposal by Maxine Williams, 22-year old white "Taxi Dancer" that two young Filipinoes go into the hills and stage a gun duel for her love ended in the death of one of the two youths today.

Graciano Sedora, 22, already armed, decided not to wait and shot to death his countryman, Raymond Dimaya, 21, the girl told police. Sedora had not been apprehended tonight.

She said that she and Dimaya planned to marry and go to Honolulu on a wedding trip. When Sedora appeared at her home while Dimaya was there she could not decide which one she loved and suggested that they duel, the winner to become her husband, she said.

Sedora did not wait to go into the hills, but suddenly produced a gun and fied four bullets into Dimaya's chest, causing death. A fifth shot inflected a minor wound in Miss William's thigh. Sedora fled.

Judge Fines His Former Teacher

EVANSTON, Ill. Nov. 4.—UP—Lessons learned in school are occasionally remembered, as Magistrate Harry H. Porter, demonstrated here.

Lifting his eyes from the bench, he saw Mrs. Ada Townsend his one-time teacher at the old Evanston academy, standing before him charged with a minor parking violation. The magistrate recalled times when their relative positions at the desk had been reversed, and was perplexed.

"Good morning, Mrs. Townsend" he said finally," I hardly know what to do about this."

"Certainly, Harry, you haven't forgotten that the earliest lesson I taught you was 'equal justice to all,'" the former teacher replied.

Nodding his head, Magistrate Porter fined Mrs. Townsend $1.

LIONS CLUB HEARS TALK AT MEETING

Outdoor Christmas tree idea taken up by Richmond persons was given praise by Clarence S. Pratt of San Francisco, president of the Outdoor Christmas Tree association, who spoke to the Lions club members in meeting yesterday.

Lights strung over a large cypress tree at his San Francisco home won high praise for Pratt. This was the origin of the outdoor Christmas tree movement.

Objects of the association as enumerated by Pratt in his speech yesterday are:

To assist in the preservation of the forests of California; to teach forestry to the children and grown ups, to encourage children to plant and care for living Christmas trees, to advertise California's wonderful all-the-year-around outdoor climate, to enable more people to see and enjoy each Christmas tree and to assist in bringing back the old-fashioned family Christmas reunion.

George Upham, chairman of the outdoor Christmas tree committee of Lions reported on the progress made in an endeavor to have many trees in this city lighted for the season.

Louis Gordon, film and radio singer provided music for the entertainment. Ray Raymond, radio announcer, introduced Gordon.

C. E. Marshall, construction engineer was taken into the club as a new member.
